Egyptian prime minister, Ibrahim Mahlab, assured investors that the government is keen and eager to topple hurdles for investment and to establish an environment conducive to attracting Arab and foreign investors, despite the gravity of these hurdles. These statements come after a high level meeting with representatives of the Al-Kharafi Group and other prominent investors, held on the 4th of May 2014. In attendance was the minister of agriculture, Ayman Fareed Abu Hadeed, where discussions were raised on the feasibility of reducing regulatory hurdles for investments in a variety of sectors in which the Al-Kharafi Group operates.
