EK Holding subsidiary Global Telecom was recently awarded a USD 1 million contract to provide Saudi Arabian desalination company Tahlia with digital maps and satellite imagery for a new water supply project. Three pumping stations and two pipelines stretched across 917 km will connect the Ras Al Kheir desalination plant and Riyadh, and once fully operational should supply the capital with a daily 900,000 cbm of fresh water. The new contract is in line with the company's value-creation strategy, which rests on directing focus and efforts towards projects with high return on investment, using the latest in technology.
